Up-date on Jute Strike

The labor strike in India affecting all the Jute weaving mills has still not been settled, as of late February. Jute is the fiber used to make burlap. This has impacted our supply chain of 47" Shalimar and 35" Bengal greige goods. Strikes at Indian weaving plants are not uncommon, and historically they are settled within a week; this strike started on 1-1-07! We are doing everything possible to secure the raw material needed to dye this burlap, but unfortunately delivery time on your orders may be affected. This is a temporary situation, and your salesperson will keep you advised on status of your orders.
